

Adblock

Posted At : July 11, 2008 12:06 PM | Posted By : Erik Voldengen

Related Categories: Bike, Misc

I couldn't take it any more. All those banner ads blinking in my face while I tried to read the actual site content just got on my nerves. So I finally spent two minutes and did something about it.

Adblock is just one of many useful add-ons you can get for the Firefox web browser. Observe:

Before:

After:

I know those banner ads raise revenue for VeloNews, which is why I held off until July 2008 to do this. But so help me, if I see one more picture of Lance Armstrong selling energy elixir...