

BAM!

Posted At : November 9, 2007 5:03 PM | Posted By : Erik Voldengen

Related Categories: Bike

So there I was, creating some non-clustered indexes in SQL Server, when the urge to clean my bike hit me.

I took the wheels off, removed the cranks, and as I was cleaning the frame, look what I found:

Yup, both chainstays are cracked, half way through. I wonder if it would have survived Estacada? Probably not.

So this means someone will be spending a some extra shop time tonight putting a bike together to race on Sunday. And that someone, of course, is me. I'm glad I have an old Redline in the garage.

What do you think?