

Sunny Sunday

Posted At : May 5, 2008 10:09 AM | Posted By : Erik Voldengen

Related Categories: Misc

What did I tell you? The sun came back, just like we all knew it would. And judging from the mood of some of you guys out there, it wasn't a moment too soon! I hope you enjoyed the sunshine.

The girls (along with some friends) put up a lemonade stand in front of our house. We're in a pretty low traffic area, so they preyed on the occasional couple out for a walk through our neighborhood. Capitalism then ensued when Donna mobilized the operation using a big red wagon, and the girls sold their wares door to door.

I got in a big ride with the team, which was great. In the evening, we headed over to Bethany Village with a bunch of our neighbors for a Cinco de Mayo celebration. Kids were riding around on scooters and bikes having a good time, while we ate Mexican food and drank margaritas.